

Dr. Tomer Itkin

Short Bio

Dr. Tomer Itkin, PhD, is at the Department of Pathology in the School of Medicine and the Sagol Center of Regenerative Medicine, with his lab at the Sheba Medical Center (SMC). Dr. Itkin completed his PhD and first postdoctoral training in Immunology and Stem Cells at the Weizmann Institute of Science, after which he continued to a second postdoctoral training and faculty position as Instructor of Biology in Medicine in New York Weill Cornell Medicine. Dr. Itkin was selected to participate in the Translational Research Training in Hematology (TRTH) program and received the American Society of Hematology (ASH) Achievement Award several times. Dr. Itkin is the first recruited Research Scholar of the Sagol Center for Regenerative Medicine. Dr. Itkin is the new Director of Tel Aviv University's Neufeld Cardiovascular Research Institute at the SMC.

Dr. Itkin completed his PhD and first postdoctoral training in Immunology and Stem Cells in Weizmann Institute of Science after which he continued to a second postdoctoral training and faculty position as Instructor of Biology in Medicine in New York Weill Cornell Medicine, focusing on vascular and stem cell biology in regenerative medicine. Tomer was selected to participate in the prestigious Translational Research Training in Hematology (TRTH) program and received several times the American Society of Hematology (ASH) Achievement Award. Dr. Itkin is the first recruited Research Scholar of Sagol Center for Regenerative Medicine.